

Automatic Measurement of Visceral Fat Volume from Whole-body MRI using Deep Learning

- We developed a new method for visceral fat volume measurement in whole-body Dixon MR images using deep learning.
- The results of the proposed method are comparable to the results from the CT images scanned by the same day.

Ref) Takahashi Masato, et all. CARS 2020, Munich, Germany

Graduate School Master & Doctor course Student under recruitment

Professor Abe Shinji Department of Radiological Image Science

Ibaraki Prefectural University of Health Sciences